

Happy Valentine's Day

Here is poem for Valentine's day,
For all who need a lift today,
For the artist and I want to celebrate,
Those who make our lives really great.

So here's a poem to G and JC,
That make up our little family,
Who suffer through hours of no attention,
Who've learned to live with artistic tension.

What's the right answer to "is this any good"?
Should they respond with a slight falsehood?
Should they speak up when a flaw they note?
What kind of horror would that evoke?

Throughout they've been there with positive words,
And help in arranging the flow of the birds,
A soft hug when words don't come,
A positive word when the brush is done.

And then there are those who receive the vigil,
Who get the goal and buy into the vision,
Who enjoy receiving daily connectuality,
Who are open to this view of actuality.

Love is the glue that has held us together,
On this vigil of homage to the feather,
You all are a part of what we have done,
We appreciate the energy of everyone.

So on this day of tribute to the heart,
An important message we wish to impart,
We need and appreciate our relationships,
Particularly those won through our courtships.

On this day of love and appreciation,
Go out into Earth Church for a celebration,
Receive our best wishes and a good hug,
And put a smile on your wonderful mug.

So welcome to Earth Church
Pull yourself up a pew
Here we have love for all
And that includes you.